The special session of the city council last night, called for the purpose of hearing remonstrators on the condemnation proceedings on the Arthur street improvements, proved to be a busy one and much business of importance was transacted. The Arthur street improvement, which is for cement walks, has been hanging fire for almost two years and has been held because of the Dillon property at the corner of Third and Arthur streets.

At a previous session of the council the city condemned the ground belonging to Chester Dillon, which is 14 feet wide and extends from the C.
H. & D. railroad to Third street. Mr.
Dillon was offered $200 damages and assessed $50 benefits making him receive $150 for the ground. There was only one remonstrance read and that was from Chester Dillon, who stated his objections to taking the $150 for the ground. In his remonstrance he asked for $600.

Dillon Given $250.

Mr. Dillon was present and in a talk to the council explained why he should have more money. He stated that by taking 14 feet of ground, the city would spoil his plans for building two houses in Arthur street because the lot would not be deep enough and for this he asked for more money. As a basis for getting the value of the property, the city attorney had taken the value of several lots to the west of the Dillon property as $500. Mr. Dillon stated that because his property was improved it should be worth more.

After discussing the claim, Councilman Parsons moved that he be given $250 damages instead of $200 and assessed $50 benefits. The motion was carried. Mr. Dillon then notified council that he would take an appeal to the circuit court.

To Push Improvements.

The Dillon property will not hinder the city from going on with the work of constructing cement walks and a preliminary resolution adopting the plans on the Arthur street improvement was given. The council will receive bids for the work at the regular session, August 15.

On this night bids will also be received for walks in Ninth street from the Big Four railroad west to the corporation line. This improvement has been before the council for some time and the residents of Ninth street desire the improvement.

The city engineer was ordered to

PROSPEROUS FARMER WEDS

Isaac Webb Takes Third Bride at the Age of Seventy.

After journeying through "life for some time without a mate, Isaac Webb, a well known and prosperous farmer, living southwest of the city, has taken a wife for a third time.
He was married this afternoon to Mrs. Lucy Kiplinger at the Main Street Christian parsonage by the Rev. Cyrus Yocum. Mr. Webb is seventy years of age, while his third wife is fifty-three. It is her second marriage as her first husband died in 1902. Mrs. Kiplinger has been the housekeeper at the Webb home for some time.

CROWD EXPECTED HERE TOMORROW

Second "Big Wednesday" of the Year Will be Featured by Free Shows and Band Concert.

MERCHANTS OFFER BARGAINS

The second "Big Wednesday" of the year will be held tomorrow and the free shows, free band concerts and extraordinary bargains given by all merchants, are expected to bring a large crowd to the city. The Rushville concert band will give a concert all day and all the moving picture theaters will be open and free from 9 o'clock until five. The last "Big Wednesday" held several weeks ago, proved to be a great success and the merchants are putting forth an effort to make tomorrow the best in the history of the bargain day. All the stores will remain open at night and the band will play during the evening.

CONNERSVILLE HAS A PEEPING THOMAS

Neighboring City to Keep Abreast
With Others, Comes Forward With New Creation.

HE WEARS A HIDEOUS MASK

Rushville, Greenfield and Anderson with their "women in black," "female giants," etc., is bested by Connersville, which city has a "Peeping Tom" who wears a hideous mask, resembling a huge snake head.

The appearance of this terrible freak has frightened the women and children and some men almost into spasms. The police were called a few nights ago to a home where the peep-er had made his appearance, and two bluecoats watched the houses on a certain street for half an hour without seeing anything out of the ordinary. It was learned, however, that the "snake headed man" had been seen peeping into half a dozen windows on the street, while the police were in hiding there.

There seems to be an epidemic of this kind of foolishness, or, perhaps it should be called by a stronger name, and a number of cities are trying to run their mystery to earth.
So far none of them have been successful, however.

PLAYFUL BLOW SERIOUS.

Donald Hungerford of St. Paul took a friendly swipe at a friend standing in a doorway in that town.
The friend dodged and Hungerford's arm went through the glass, cutting an artery.

MAY GET GIRL DRIVER HERE

Secretary King Confers With Dr. C.
E. Fear to Arrange For His Daughter to Drive.

SPECIAL FAIR ATTRACTIONS

Ten-Year-Old Miss Has Two Horses
Which She Drives Near Two Minute Clip.

Dr. Charles E. Fear of Shelby-ville was here this afternoon attempting to arrange for his ten-year-old daughter and her two fast horses to appear as a special attraction at the Rush county fair. Dr.
Fear conferred with W. L. King, the fair secretary, and it was expected that an agreement would be reached for the phenomenal girl to appear here.

Mr. King today sent a contract to the man who owns the diving pony, arranging for its appearance here in daily programs. Mr. King said that if the Shelbyville miss came here, that the other attraction would not be booked unless it could be obtained at a greatly reduced price. If that can be done the free attractions at this year's exhibit will be far above the ordinary.

The diminutive girl has two horses on her "string," Doctor F. and Lady F. She is only ten years of age and weighs fifty-five pounds, but she drives with all the skill of a professional driver. She trained in 1910 upon the State fair grounds at Indianapolis where she attracted much attention from horsemen and this season she has been in training at Shelbyville since early in the season and the horsemen who have witnessed her startling performances are all very enthusiastic as to her success.

Her father, Dr. Charles E. Fear, moved to Shelbyville from Indianapolis in December, 1910 and he is engaged in promoting Little Ruth and her horses as special attractions for fairs. She now has several contracts booked for some of the leading fairs in Ohio State and from this time on she will be busy.

She has driven Doctor F. a half mile in 1:04, which is faster than any other animal ever went around the Shelbyville track. She can drive Lady F. close to the 1:05 mark. At Columbus, Ind., she drove Doctor F. a half in 1:04 1/4 and Lady F. in 1:05 1/2 on July Fourth.

That she is a world wonder there is little doubt and that her horses are far above the average is a fact.
Little Ruth will be elegantly costum-ed, her horses will wear the finest harness to be had and the grooms will be liveried in keeping with a great attraction. Her name will carry the name of Shelbyville to many distant ears this year and those who may witness her performances either here or elsewhere will have seen a wonder in the speed ring.

Secretary King planned to agree to pay the girl so much if she breaks the local track record, 2:00, with either of her horses. Considering past performances she could easily do that.

WALLACES SELL OUT.

The Wallace candy kitchen at New Castle has been sold to two young men of that city and James Wallace, brother-in-law of Charles Caron of this city, will retire from the business in which he has engaged for a number of years. He was formerly interested in the Caron candy kitchen here and is well known here.

Mrs. Slinor Hill, mother of Mrs.
J. L. Champion of this city, is very sick at the Champion home and is not expected to live over night.

CROWDS THROG ABOUT TOURISTS

"Flying Squadron," in Initial Advertising Trip of Series, is Greeted by Many People.

GREAT INTEREST IN TOWNS

"Spielers" Explain Features of the Chautauqua From Machines—Raleigh Dead in Slumber.

Large crowds greeted the "Flying Squadron" on its initial trip at every stop in the eastern and northeastern part of Rush county last evening. It was apparent that there is a great interest aroused among the country people and the residents of the towns of the county over the coming chautauqua from the people who were out and waiting for the caravan of automobiles last night. There were four machines in the squadron last evening.

The advertising trips will be discontinued Wednesday evening which is the evening of Rushville's bargain day. The next trip of the "Flying Squadron" after this evening will be made Thursday night. That night the caravan will visit Milroy, New Salem and Andersonville and probably Richland. The automobiles will always leave the F. E. Wolcott drug store promptly at 6:30 o'clock. Tonight the squadron will visit Arlington and Carthage.

Glenwood Before Dark.

The departure of the squadron last night was delayed by the late arrival of two of the machines and the start was not made until five minutes of seven o'clock. By reason of the fact that it was necessary to go three miles out of the way to get to Glenwood, it was almost dark when the string of automobiles pulled into the county-line town. There was a good crowd on the streets, in front of the hotel there and it was not long before most everyone in town had gathered around the invaders.
Two numbers were sung by the quartet, minus one, as E. B. Thomas found it impossible to go at the last moment.

Prof. J. H. Scholl, using a machine as a platform, addressed the crowd with the chautauqua as a topic. Without plagiarizing averred that this year's assembly was by far the best that Rushville had ever offered to the people of Rush county and vicinity. He pointed out the sterling numbers on the program and went into detail, describing each attraction of the week's program. He urged that county people come all day and enjoy the relaxation and subsequent pleasure that the programs would afford.

The jaunt of four miles up to Fairview was made in a short time despite the poor condition of the Rush-Fayette county line road. The "tourists" were slightly jarred and tossed about in the trip but they were relieved when they saw the crowd that was waiting at the Fayette county town.

Neighborhood Fairviewers

John A. Titsworth made a neigh-borly talk to the Fairviewers, urging them to come over into Rush county and visit with their neighbors for a brief respite and enjoy something that outweighed their free fair. He declared that Rush county people patronized their free exhibition every year liberally and that they were duty bound to return the favor. He explained the program, the feature numbers, and the many other things that are inducements to attend the annual assembly. The singers were roundly applauded for a selection and were induced to respond with

OPPOSE STREET FAIR

Some St. Paul People Look With Disfavor on Plan.

There are two sides to every question, says the Greensburg Review.
While a number of people about St.
Paul favor a home-coming, or street fair, as it may be, there is another element, representing the best class of citizens, who object to street fairs on the general grounds that they are demoralizing. They say that the saloon is at St. Paul to stay, but that it is over the line and with its amusements let it stay there. They dread the vile effects of the shows that will bring snakes, "Hoochy-coochy," and other vicious attractions to the town and on high moral grounds oppose a street fair under any name—even that of "home-coming."

IS FOUND GUILTY AND THEN PAROLED

Aubrey Owens, Who Slashed Leroy
Cook of Carthage in New Castle Fight, is Free.

UNDER SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Aubrey Owens, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, pleaded guilty Monday in the circuit court before Judge Jackson and was sentenced to the Jeffersonville reformatory for a term of from two to fourteen years, says the New Castle Courier. The sentence was suspended. Owens will be released from jail as soon as the proper arrangements are made by the parole officer from Jeffersonville.

Owens has already served eighty-six days in the county jail and is a very penitent prisoner. He was tried in May on the charge, but the jury disagreed and the case was re-set for a hearing in October.

The prisoner, while drunk, fought with another colored man, Leroy Cook of Carthage, on the Bowery.
Cook emerged from the battle with several knife wounds on his person, including a bad cut across the abdomen.

DUE FOR TERM IN SOME INSTITUTION

Release of Charles Wolfe, Charged With Arson in Hamilton, O., Seems Remote.

PRISON OR INSANE ASYLUM?

Charles Wolfe, alias Clarence Withrow, now in jail on a charge of arson, continues to refuse to make any statement connecting himself with the late barn fires in this city, says the Hamilton Republican-News. He sticks to the story that he was not connected with the fires and he has as yet furnished no evidence for the prosecution. Innocent or guilty and mentally wrong or right, he seems to have sense enough to keep his mouth shut.

The accumulated evidence against him, however, points very strongly to his guilt, but it is probable that a question will ultimately arise as to his mental responsibility for his alleged crimes. In any event his release from present and future custody is extremely remote.

WANTS PAY FOR INSTALLATION

City Presents Bill For $95 For Wiring Cluster Lights to Merchants Association.

LIKE BOLT OUT OF CLEAR SKY

Business Men Always Understood
City Was to Install Lights—Settled All Bills.

At a recent meeting of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association, the cluster light bills were all paid and the light question was settled for all time, at least the merchants thought that. But they have something to learn, so it seems. This morning the city presented a bill to the secretary of the association for ninety-five dollars. It came as does a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky.
The bill will be considered at the next regular meeting of the association.

The bill is specific in its demands.
It says in the language of a bill that the Rushville Merchants Association owes the City Water and Light Plant eighty-seven dollars for wiring fifty-eight pedestal lights at $1.50 each.
It further states that the association owes the city eight dollars for splicing four pedestal lights at $2.00 each.
The bill is ended with a "please remit soon," and is signed by Gurney Cohee, city treasurer.

It has always been the general understanding among the members of the association that the city would install the lights if the merchants would pay for them. The merchants paid out $2,978 for the lights and then donated them to the city. It was thought that the city could well afford to install them if the $3,000 worth of property were given to the council.

That the members of the association understood the agreement that way is evidenced by the fact that they settled the light question at a recent meeting and thought that they had all bills paid. A. T. Mahin, superintendent of the plant, says that he notified a member of the association not long ago that there would be another bill to pay, but it was not done officially and that member never mentioned the fact at a meeting of the association.

Several merchants who were seen this morning said that they supposed that they would be compelled to pay what the city demanded and any other bills that the council should see fit to foist off on to the organization.
They recall the fact that no contract was ever made in regard to the installation of the lights and that the city may include lots of things to be a part of the lights. It was naturally supposed by the merchants that the wiring was a part of the installation and not apart of the posts and lamps proper. No such thing ever entered the head of any member of the association so far as can be learned.

When the agreement was reached between the association and the city council, it was understood that a contract should be drawn up by Howard Barrett, city attorney, which would be signed by the contracting parties. The other day a contract was looked for and it was discovered that the city attorney never made the contract. Now the merchants have nothing to refer to and, if they make any assertions as to an agreement, they can not back it up with the necessary proofs.

Their action controls your health. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. W. H. Applegate of Shelbyville, Ind., says that "I have long been troubled with kidney trouble and for the past few years it has been of a far more serious nature and caused me much worry. My limbs were all swollen up with rheumatism. My back pained me terribly, so that I could hardly get around and my kidneys were very weak and made me get up several times each night. I then started taking Foley Kidney Pills and they built my kidneys right up, giving them strength and causing them to act naturally. I am never bothered now with getting up at night and the swelling and rheumatism in my limbs has entirely left and I feel like a new man. ### OPPOSES MOVE FOR RELEASE

Renewal of Attempts at Terre Haute to Secure the Release From Prison of Henry McDonald Causes the Governor to Warn the Parole Board Against Such Action, on the Ground That McDonald Is a Dangerous Man.

Michigan City, Ind., July 25.—In the belief that it will be necessary to transfer him to the department for the criminal insane, officials at the state prison are watching Henry McDonald, sentenced to the prison for manslaughter for killing William E. Dwyer, chief of the Terre Haute city detectives. McDonald has displayed it is reported, strong evidence of insanity.

Under the law, McDonald will soon be eligible to appear before the prison parole board for parole, but Governor Marshall has taken up the case with a view to preventing his release, on the theory that he is a dangerous man and should not be set at large. When McDonald was sentenced there were pending against him several indictments in the Vigo circuit court for alleged dynamiting, and for shooting with intent to kill other persons in the courtroom where Dwyer was killed, some of whom were wounded by McDonald. Judge Fortune of the Vigo court recently quashed these indictments on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Owens. When Governor Marshall learned of the indictments, he wrote the several members of the parole board of the prison, calling their attention to the quashed indictments and directing that they refuse to release McDonald. A second letter is to follow, as the governor has been told of a renewal of the attempts in Terre Haute to obtain the release of McDonald.

CASES MAY GO OVER

The Latest Move in Muncie's Local Option Contest.

Muncie, Ind., July 25.—Judge Charles Bagot of the Madison county circuit court, who has assumed jurisdiction in Muncie's liquor remonstrance cases, granted the motion of the "drys" for a change of venue from Delaware county in the appeals of seventeen applicants for licenses to sell liquor in the business district and, on suggestion of the "wets," sent these cases to the Madison county superior court, over which Judge H. C. Austill presides.

After the court had made up his docket showing the change of venue, the lawyers for the "drys" indicated that if the "wets" would agree to the delay they would consent to try all the cases in this county before Judge Bagot, Sept. 4.

Three Months Without Sleep.

Evansville, Ind., July 25.—William H. Vice, aged sixty, who is suffering from a bad case of drowsy, has not closed his eyes in sleep for the last ninety-five days. This statement is made by the man himself and is corroborated by his attending physician. The old man's death is only a question of time, according to the physician.

Caught in Gas Trap.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 25.—Phillip Burrell was burned to death and Pickering Manning injured when a thrashing machine they were moving at Lawrenceville, Ill., punctured a 500-pound pressure gas pipe. The gas was ignited by the thrashing machine firebox and the machine instantly burst into flames.

Fatal Motorcycle Accident.

Michigan City, Ind., July 25.—Fred Meyer, aged fifty-two, took his first ride on a motorcycle with Fred Strigow, and is dead as the result of a fracture of the skull in an accident. He was seated on the tank of the machine in front of Strigow when the motorcycle crashed into an automobile.

Gas Wrecked Building at Gary.

Gary, Ind., July 25.—The central part of Gary was shaken by an explosion that wrecked a two-story business building at 622 Broadway and injured eight people in the structure. An accumulation of gas, the police say, caused the explosion.

Child Topped Into Jar.

Ft Wayne, Ind., July 25.—The three-year-old daughter of Charles McInturf, of near Churubusco, stooped over a twelve-gallon water jar to sip a drink and toppled in head first and drowned.

Lebanon Votes "Dry."

Lebanon, Ind., July 25.—The local option election in this city Monday resulted in a victory for the "drys" by a majority of 193, the vote being, "dry," 860; "wet," 667.

Shot His Son-in-Law.

Jasper, Ind., July 25.—Dan Sturgeon, aged sixty-five years, fatally shot Elsworth Mack, his son-in-law, aged thirty, at Crystal. Family trouble caused the shooting.

Difference in Reading During Hot Weather

Has hot weather any effect upon the kinds of books read? Do tales of the mountains, of the "bubbling brooks" and the seashore interest people in the summer with the temperature hovering around the 100 mark? And on the other hand, are stories of Central Africa with its 200 in the shade temperature, more interesting to book lovers when the thermometer is trying to hide itself in the bulb of mercury and the snow outside is two feet in depth?

These facts are the questions often asked by those who are members of what popularity is known as the "book reading public." Men have studied the question, scientists have raved over the effects of mental contrasts, but they all agree upon the same answer for the foregoing questions, "there is a difference."

Heat, with its effect of placing the average person in a semi-coma state, and takes what little vitality and "get up" had before the advent of the warm period, also has its effect upon the kind of books read in several ways. People when oppressed with heat are prone to think of nothing. It makes them hot to think to any great extent. And the result? The deep books with you-have-to-think-em-over plots are tabooed, and the light fiction, with its simple plots, comes to take their place.

Cold also works in the same manner. The mind, the body, everything, is in a fit mood for study when the thermometer is trying to get below the zero mark. The mind is well adapted when the body is in a cold state to gather up the "strings" of a plot, carry them through and think them out at the completion of the book, if they are not readily seen during the reading. The trend towards winter study always has and always will be readily noticeable. The effect of cold therefore upon the book desires of the "reading public" is exactly the opposite of that experienced in summer. The books of fiction are "deep" and the books left on the shelves during the warmer months of summer, such as books of information and study, are again taken from their places when the first nip of frost appears in the air.

BELIEVES IN COUNTY OPTION

George B. Lockwood, Editor of Marion Chronicle Has Positive Views on Liquor Question.

EXPRESSES THEM IN PAPER

Declares Militant Body of Republican Will Demand Party Take Stand at Next Convention.

George B. Lockwood, publisher of the Marion Chronicle and the fighting head of the county unit local option element in Indiana, has positive views as to the demands of the hour in the Hoosier state, in a political way. He asserts his opinions in his editorial columns with frequency and point. He believes in agitation and in fighting, and so he agitates and fights with more or less continuity and with a singleness of purpose and a vigor that are enlivening as well as effective. Mr. Lockwood says he believes the next Republican state convention should demand the re-enactment of the county unit local option law and go to the limit on that declaration. Personally, he says, he would be in favor of committing the Republican party further to a demand for a constitutional amendment providing for state-wide prohibition.

"There will be a militant and insistent body of Republicans at the next state convention of the party," said Mr. Lockwood, "to insist that the party must and shall take a stand on the question whether a big special interest shall dominate the Legislature, make laws to suit itself, and then dominate local elections and say that the statutes shall be ignored or nullified through disuse and neglect. It is not a question of saloon or no saloon today, as we see it. It is a question in Indiana whether the people shall rule, or whether they shall continue to permit a big special interest to control the state's affairs. The issue is broader than the liquor question. The saloon has ceased to be the main thing. Shall the people surrender to the selfish interests is the question that must be settled in 1912 in Indiana, according to our view of the situation.

"If there are persons who believe the question of domination by the big special interests is settled, let such persons go among Indiana people and listen and learn the truth. If statesmen in Indianapolis, in the lobbies and clubrooms, tell you the option question has been adjusted, and that the new statutes provided by the special interests have removed the local option issue from politics, you tell such sapient ones to hearken to the talk of the people in the counties outside Indianapolis.

"The elements that are forming to wrest control of the state from the grip of the big special interests will not lack for proper organization when the time comes. They will not be voiceless nor spineless. They will go into the Republican state convention to put the big issue squarely before the delegates. As these elements see it, the Republican party, in order to sustain its record for fearlessness and aggressiveness, must meet the situation with the old-time courage and go to the people frankly and unflinchingly on a platform that shall state a forward position on the matters that are closest to the people.

"There were reasons why the fight for an option plank was made in the Republican state convention of 1910. Many of the leaders on the side of the option forces felt that the campaign that year was an uncertain one, and that in case of Republican party defeat the disaster might be blamed on the option plank. So it was that the option forces counseled against a floor fight for such a plank. The campaign went on. The Republican platform, minus the option plank, did not serve to carry the party to victory. The option forces felt, and now feel, that they could not be blamed for that defeat at the polls. Now those same forces are preparing to present the issue once more to the Republican party. There will be no dodging by anybody. It will go squarely to the delegates and to the people. I thoroughly believe that if the situation is met bravely and fairly the Republican party will go back into power in Indiana, and that the big special interest that now seeks to fasten its clutches on the state will be removed from its place of vantage. That is the way we feel about it. Opinions differ. Of course we believe we are right. And we argue, as a general proposition, that the Republican party should not attempt to dodge a live public issue. The spectacle of the Republican party in the role of the artful dodger is not edifying."

AMUSEMENTS

Following "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" the Stock Company at the Murat Theater offers another three-act farce as the attraction this week, "Naughty Rebecca," a play that is entirely new to Indianapolis theatergoers and a comedy that promise to be one of the funniest ever offered in this city.

The story concerns one Rebecca, apparently a prim young maid who is employed in the home of a family of Wagstaffs. Although she seems demure she has a weakness for practical joking which causes much trouble in this family. At the time the story opens the Wagstaffs are entertaining some relatives and friends, including a Mr. and Mrs. Greythorne and their uncle and their aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joskin Tubbs. Mr. Tubbs is a busy cotton merchant in a smaller town who visits them semi-annually for the purpose of buying goods and incidentally to make "a night of it" while in the city.

A notable feature of the bill will be the appearance for the first time in the east of Mr. Wright Huntington, the stage director of the company who will be seen in the congenial comedy part which he has played many times before. Lillian Sinnott will have the title role, a part that should fit her admirably. Chester Beach will have the role of Joskin Tubbs and Mr. Sently will play the part of the nephew, Henry. The other members of the cast will all have roles well suited them.

But as all the rest had sought cover in the cloak rooms, no one can disprove it.

The New York-Montreal macadam highway is to be called Champlain road. Banker's Salvation would be more destructive.

The Congressional Record reverberates with the words "loud applause" inserted by the men who made the speeches.

Indiana, after manfully swatting the fly, is to have a "kill the rat" day, on which occasion the Hoosier poets should be able to get a square meal.

Dr. Forman says study of Greek would divert young men from the passion for money getting. Possibly, if there was anyone left in college to be diverted.

Cleo de Merode, the Paris dancer, is coming over to lecture on "How to attract men." From her experience of the bald-headed row, she ought to know.

This paying duty on animals taken out of the country and brought back, must be hard on people near the line who raise chickens with a well developed wanderlust.

Dr. G. Stanley Hall wants school teachers to be more graceful. Good practice for that would be to waltz the small boys around the room by the ear more frequently.

President Taft might save embarrassment on his next German ambassador by feeding him on sauerkraut some day, and seeing if he can keep it down until he has time to get out of doors.

The brokers are trying to sell Chinese railroad bonds in this country. But will the Chinks ride on railways, which would probably take them out of sight of the graves of their ancestors?

The Humane Society wants blinders taken off horses. Let Dobbin enjoy the scenery like the poet he is, and put the blinkers on the joy riders who are merely interested in the next mud puddle.

If all the money that will be invested in get rich quick mining stocks in the next five years could be put into the postal savings banks at only two per cent. our people would be much wealthier.

For years there has been unrest among the masculine half of creation, over the hot clothes convention compels them to wear during all through a torrid summer.

This spirit of revolt is augmented by gazing on the cool draperies of women, who are permitted by modern custom to interpose merely a cobweb between their shoulders and the cooling breeze.

Meanwhile, the men must wear at least three thicknesses of clothing over the upper portion of their bodies. The top thickness is of a somewhat firm cloth, usually lined, a constant dragging weight.

Some years ago, a determined stand was taken in behalf of the "shirt waist" costume. This came to naught through the slovenliness of a large section of men, who appeared in places of polite resort with greasy suspenders and soiled shirts. It became impossible for the managers of hotels and other public places to draw the line between the clean man and the dirty man, so that both fell alike under the ban.

Meanwhile, a certain proportion of independent men, mostly elderly, wear comfortable linen and alpaca coats at work and on the streets.

So after all comfort is within our reach, if we are not prohibited from grasping it by our own vanity.

The Democratic legislature of Indiana during two sessions has made such extravagant expenditures of state funds, provided so many new jobs for democrats at good salaries, says the Columbia City Mail, that the state today is facing near bankruptcy. The tax rate has been raised, and notice has been served on all of the counties of the state that the valuation of real estate and personal property as taken by the assessors last spring were too low to furnish taxes sufficient to run the state under the present régime. Now the state tax board is going to raise the valuations in the counties, and the people will simply have to walk up to the captain's office and fork over whatever amount of taxes Governor Marshall's tax board demands for operating Marshall's silk sock government. Then there is that matter of $1,000 a day that the people of the state are paying for 100 expert accountants at $10 a day each for nosing into the office of the state, counties and townships, which has so far resulted in the people getting back about one dollar for every ten they pay the experts. We sowed a democratic administration and we are reaping the usual crop of brambles and thistles. Stung again.

The Huntington Herald states its position in such plain words and thereby sets forth such a Republican doctrine that all members of the G. O. P. should read the following with interest.

Some one has described an insurgent as one who, when he starts can't stop and a standpatter as one who, when he stops, can't start.

The best conception of Republicanism is half way between these two extremes. Republicanism, to the thinking leaders of the party, has always meant progress, but steady progress along sane and conservative lines.

If the radicals of both camps will meet each other half-way, on that ground they will find the great body of Republicanism ready to move forward.

Nothing is to be gained in Indiana or elsewhere for Republicanism or for the country by the stirring up of factional sentiment within the Republican party. If the party will stand by its record and its traditions, at the same time adapting itself to changing economic conditions in its pronouncements and its enactments, it will remain what it has been for a half century, the party which most clearly and effectively expresses the best thought and the highest ideals animating the masses of the people.

The Herald does not believe it wise policy to invite any Indiana Republican to go away back and sit down, as some propose to do. The better plan is to invite every Republican to stand up and be counted, and leave the selection of leadership and the formulation of platforms to the Republican rank and file.

The Republican party in Indiana is big enough to tolerate honest differences of opinion, and to withstand the clash of rival personal ambitions. There is no danger that any man or set of men will govern the Republicans of this State without the consent of the governed. We need in Republican councils in Indiana the help of the old guard and the new, and without the help of both Republican effort will be futile.

Let us have an end in Republican newspapers and among Republicans generally of the airing of old feuds and old grudges, and let Republican leadership be judged by the rank and file of the party in exact accordance with the disposition it manifests to drop old quarrels and serve the party by making it the vehicle of the sentiment of the Republican masses, who are not interested in the differences of factional leaders, but who are vitally concerned in the welfare of their party because they believe that in its success is bound up the highest welfare of their state and their country.

EDITORIALETTES.

We trust there will be no attack of heart failure since the city council decided that Perkins street shall be paved.

And the council came out of its lengthy lethargy and decided that perhaps Second street does need sweeping after all.

We have enough hot weather stored up for this colynn, so that, when it does get warm again, there'll be no end to the bores we are goin' to offer you.

Don't suppose John will be mean enough to say that it's another Republican scheme, do you?

That's all right if you'll just keep your fingers crossed, John.

Have you searched through the wardrobe for your heavy ones yet?

SEVERAL EGG
DEALERS FINED

Inspectors From State Food and Drug Department Are Finding Field For Work.

CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVING

That dealers who handle bad eggs are in line for a heavy fine is evident by the way the state food and drug commissioner is going after violators.

Reports of six fines assessed against dealers for selling bad eggs have been reported to H. E. Barnard State food and drug commissioner. In Muncie, Hurst Brothers, J. B. Caskdollar and H. Jones were each fined $10, and costs, amounting to $18.50. In Columbus, H. Boyd and George Winans were each fined $10 the fine and costs in these cases amounting to $20 each. The fine and costs in the case of W. L. Shuler of Vincennes, also amounted to $20. Mr. Barnard reported the egg situation throughout the state improving, a condition he attributes to the fact that the five inspectors employed by the department are giving their attention chiefly to the egg question, and the local health officers everywhere are working in conjunction with the state department.

Under the law which created the hospital all patients must give way to treatment for the care of poor persons, although patients who desire to pay may be taken in at the option of the superintendent, provided there are no indigents awaiting admission.

ABOUT TOURISTS

another. The mile spin over to Falmouth was made in a short time and there the largest crowd of the tour was waiting. In front of the principal store of the town, the caravan drew up and prepared for the entertainment. As in other cases the musicians were almost forced to sing again and they very graciously did so.

Raleigh Sound Asleep.

John Tittsworth was again the official "ballyho" man and he cried out the wonderful attributes of the approaching assembly from the floor of Dr. Sparks automobile. He pointed out the attractive features of the chautauqua, placing special stress on the lectures by Lincoln McConnell, the Chautauqua Ladies orchestra entertainment and the Hinshaw opera company which will give two complete entertainments.

The four mile trip to Raleigh was made in very fast time, the excellent road being too tempting for the "pathfinder," alias John Blackledge's car. That car, closely followed by Elmer Caldwell, arrived in Raleigh about ten minutes ahead of the remaining machines and that ten minutes was devoted to making all the noise possible, but Raleigh was not to be awakened from its slumber. One bare head slyly pushed its way from behind a curtain and out the window and one miss ventured into the street, only to remain for a short time and hurry back into the house. The two lead cars proved to be a miserable failure as crowdgetters and when the other machines arrived, no persons were to be seen. As it was late, it was deemed best not to tarry longer in Raleigh.

Frank Martin's "boulevard," that smooth and marble-like road west of Raleigh to Mays, was too great a temptation to the new "pathfinder," Elmer Caldwell, who usurped the lead position. He struck a gait that only the Blackledge car followed and speeded into Mays with the expectation of finding Mays also in the arms of Morpheus. But no Mays. They had lanterns hung on the telephone poles to welcome the caravan into their town and a large crowd was waiting, near the church, for the music. The official entertainers were accorded the most hearty reception of the tour and gave the best entertainment of the evening.

Again Prof. J. H. Scholl assumed the duties of chief explainer and he invited all of the people of Mays and vicinity to visit Rush county's seat chautauqua week. He spoke briefly of the program and pointed out that the chautauqua will have a coliseum this year for the first time which will protect the audiences from all inclement weather. The trip home was made in a short time and the party arrived here shortly after ten o'clock.

The machines were furnished by Frank Reynolds, Dr. F. M. Sparks, John Blackledge and Elmer Caldwell. The men who furnished the music were Dr. F. M. Sparks, Dr. F. R. McClanahan and T. A. Craig.

GEOGRAPHIES COMPLETE

New Ones Give Extensive Review of Hoosier State.

Charles A. Greathouse, State superintendent of public instruction, has received copies of the new Frye Geographies, to be used in the special one-course form, adopted by a special committee of the State board of education. Several changes have been made in the publication. The section of the book devoted to Indiana probably is the most comprehensive that has been attempted. Pictures of public buildings throughout the State, agricultural and manufacturing scenes in Indiana and Indianapolis are among the features of the book.

But five large American cities—Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Louisville—require old wall paper to be removed from tenement houses before new is affixed.

COUNCIL ACTS
ON MANY THINGS

survey Buena Vista avenue for cement walks on both sides of the street.

Plans of Perkins Street.

City Engineer Cameron was present and submitted his plans and specifications for the paving of Perkins street. The plans call for the street to be 36 feet wide from the south side of Seventh street to the south side of Second street, then 42 feet wide to the alley south of the jail. Mr. Cameron stated that the Perkins street hill would be hard to pave on account of the grade. After discussing the cost of various materials and the advisability of each, the council adopted Mr. Cameron's plans and set August 15 for the hearing of remonstrances.

The cost of the various materials as given by the engineer, showed that wooden blocks with a 6 inch concrete base to cost $2.55 per square yard. Brick pavement with 6 inches of concrete as a base and 2 inches of sand cushion would cost $2 per square yard. Asphalt and bitulithic were both given as $2 per square yard. The council did not make known their choice, but looked very favorably on brick. If the petitioners and remonstrators do not appear on the night of Aug. 15, the council has the right to decide on the material.

Street Sprinkling.

Councilman Parsons in speaking of the advisability of the merchants sprinkling the business district said that from his observations the streets did not need sprinkling as they were kept free from dust by John Singer, who sweeps the streets every day. The mention of Mr. Singer's name brought to the attention of council that he wanted a raise in wages. He has been doing the work for 17 cents an hour and the council thought that if there was anyone in the street department who deserves 20 cents an hour it was Singer and he will get the raise.

While on this topic, council suddenly woke up and discovered the long lost street sweeper. Councilman Parsons said he had asked Street Commissioner Kelley when he was going to use it as the people in the resident district were complaining. Up until last night the sweeper had not been above the Main street hill for six weeks and the dust and dirt was thick. The sweeper promises to become very popular as Councilman Newhouse moved that the business district be swept three times a week and the residence district once each week. The motion carried and Kelley will be instructed to do so.

It was also suggested that the streets be cleaned on Sunday mornings as the streets are very dirty and unsightly. The matter was not decided, but will probably be done in a short time.

In regard to a petition from the Merchants Association at the last meeting asking for water for sprinkling purposes it was decided that they could have water at 10 cents a thousand gallons at the plant. If they want the water a stand-pipe will be erected there for this purpose.

Councilman Parsons said that several merchants had complained to him about the automobiles standing in front of their places of business on Saturday nights. These people are not all from the country, but include many from the city who should give others a chance to get up to the stores for their goods. The police will try to get these people from congesting the traffic and will ask them to stop on the court house square.

Hire Another Policeman.

The mayor brought to the attention of the council the fact that the city was badly in need of another policeman and recommended that they hire a man. Parsons moved that the matter be referred to the police committee. This met with some objections as it was pointed out that there was no need of delay, that the man was needed to police the residence district. Norris amended the motion and moved that they select the man immediately. Moore and Parsons voted "no," and Norris and Newhouse voted "yes." Mayor Black decided things by voting "yes."

Norris nominated George Perkins for the place at $50 a month and Perkins became a member of the force.

The police wrangle did not end here. Kelley thought it best that the police committee make some rules to regulate the work of the police. Parsons desired that they settle it then and there, but as a compromise Chief of Police McAllister will frame a set of regulations and submit them for council's approval. The police will have the rules to go by and the regulations will better the system. Councilman Kelley in suggesting this matter said that the men who were turning in the numerous false alarms had a purpose in doing so and with three police they had a show of capturing the guilty ones. One of the men will probably be on duty all night.

Those Cluster Lights.

A petition, signed by almost every business man in the city was presented to the council, requesting that the street lights be left burning until 10 o'clock every night except Saturday, when they should burn until 12 o'clock. The petition was the result of the order of the council turning out the lights at nine o'clock. Councilman Newhouse moved that the petition be granted, which carried. G. P. Hunt and Ben Cox represented the petition.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday night.

His daughter secretly marries one of her father's captains and they are caught in a storm at sea. The picture is said to be very fine. The other film is a

THE LASH OF CIRCUMSTANCE

By HARRY IRVING GREENE

"At any time and place that suits you, Mackay. There is a beauty doctor a few blocks down the street—open day and night, I believe. I wish you a pleasant evening with the devil for your partner." He picked up his hat, coughed once in his peculiar way and disappeared without reply in the direction of the lighted street. Although I knew that I had made an unforgiving foe, against whom I had been charged and almost proven had more than once hired professional thugs to half kill his enemies; knowing also that there was no reason why he might not do the same in my case, I was still more than half glad that the affair had happened. At any rate, if he had any status beyond that of a business agent with the woman who had promised to be my wife, this incident would develop the fact. Even though he was her financial guardian he would be seriously embarrassed should he attempt to uphold himself in what he had done this night; and certainly if she cared for me at all she would express her satisfaction to me over the outcome. Nursing my sole injuries, which were confined to a pair of battered knuckles, I went to the nearest public telephone and called her up. She answered rather sleepily at first, her voice quickening a bit as I told her what had happened. But when I had finished I waited in vain for her answer.

"Have you nothing to say?" I inquired at length, rather coldly perhaps. Her voice came to my ears again, strained, it seemed to me, and somewhat expressionless.

"I very much regret that the affair happened. Certainly you did quite right to protect yourself. But I am really unfit to talk any more tonight. You may come and see me tomorrow and tell me more about it, if you care to. I wish you a restful sleep after your adventure. Good night."

Taking everything together, I went home fairly content. She had repulsed his attempt to call upon her; had made no attempt to excuse him for his actions then or later in his attack upon me; and all in all it had been a bad night for the enemy. In the nature of things, it was but natural that she should be more or less perturbed over the two disagreeable events of the night, and I could well appreciate that she might be reluctant to talk of such matters over a public telephone, with all its possibilities of unseen listeners. But I was confident that she would express herself with more warmth upon the subject when we were together on the morrow.

CHAPTER XIV.

Somewhat contrary to my expectations, Mrs. Dace had little to say concerning the matter when I next saw her. She accepted my version of the episode practically without comment, and when I tried to draw from her some expression of sentiment on the subject, she threw the whole matter bodily out of our conversation with the request that we talk about something less unpleasant. In a measure this disappointed me for the reason that I felt that I was entirely in the right and that she, therefore, should have been rather more outspoken in her approval of my actions. Still, I believed that I understood her thoughts. Mackay was her business agent; was in a position to be of great service to her, and for that reason she did not care to antagonize him by coming out in open partisanship over our disagreements. I had given him a handsome whipping and escaped unhurt myself, and so far as I was concerned, therefore, there had been no damage done. I accepted this as the natural solution of her desire to refrain from further comment upon the matter. From my own standpoint I considered myself invulnerable to him, except in the case of treacherous physical attack, and that I could guard against by watchfulness. Figuratively speaking, I snapped my fingers in his face.

Of Uncle Abner, still mumbling and grumbling like a bear stung upon the nose by a bee, I saw as little as I conveniently could. When I was at home I kept myself pretty close within my own quarters, and he seldom disturbed me beyond the occasional opening of the door to glare at me for a moment and then close it with a bang. In fact, he seemed to more and more consider me as responsible for his loss by reason of my not having been present upon the night of the assault. The few attempts I made to reestablish myself even partially in his favor met with such little success that I gave them up, leaving matters to take their natural course. The securities that he had previously kept in the safe he had now deposited in the bank, even going to the extent of reposing his gold watch among them and buying a dollar timepiece for his daily use. The experience of the night of the crime had seemed to make an arrant coward of him.

I had not seen LeDuc for several days. I was anxious to meet him, as I was wondering considerably what he was up to, and was desirous of questioning him as to progress. Bruce had hunted up on one occasion after my interview with the detective, and had found him in seemingly far better spirits than when I had last seen him upon the day after the burglary. He did not seem to hold it against me that I had charged him with having had the key, telling me he had no doubt but that I was honestly mistaken. But when I made a slight allusion to his operations on the board he shut up tight as a clam, which of course was unusual for Bruce. Therefore I did not feel warranted in pursuing the matter further. He was operating openly now and I thought as recklessly as ever, but whether his deals were being made on his own account or on behalf of some client I had no information beside what the detective had given me. Clare while equally uncommunicative about his business affairs, still remained defiantly loyal to him.

"I don't believe there is a crooked hair in Bruce's head; won't listen to anything that anybody may say against him, and have my own opinion of those who do," she asserted strenuously. I sincerely admired her fealty and told her so as I emphatically indorsed her views. Still I could not help secretly acknowledging that there were very ugly looking features about the case that I would have considered him wiser had he explained. But he seemed rather inclined to avoid me since the affair of the safe, and as it was his business after all, and as I did not care to be snubbed, I went my way and allowed him to go his without disturbance.

A few evenings later I happened to be standing in front of one of the leading hotels. I had nothing in mind that I cared to do, and was idly watching the passers-by when some one gave me a poke in the back and I turned to find LeDuc grinning at me. We shook hands and sauntered off together as I pled him for the latest information. He was mystically evasive.

"Talk about hustling," he said, with a short laugh. "A fly on a banquet table is idle beside the way I

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Gray Hair Is First Sign of Age. Harmless Remedy Restores to Natural Color.

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

have been buzzing around. If there has been any busier man in town I would like to stand somewhere and behind something and watch him go by. He'd whizz like a bullet. I have run down every possible clue that I could get hold of and tried out every reasonable theory that I could conjure up, and at last know pretty near where to put my fingers next. Anyway, I know who stole the money," I stopped short, seizing him by the arm.

"Who?" I demanded. He pulled me along with him, gently shaking his head.

"Can't tell you just yet. It is always bad judgment to let a cat out of a bag until the right time comes. But I know who he is and I will tell you soon enough." Burning with impatience to know whom he referred to, but restrained from further questioning by the manner of his refusal to enlighten me, we continued our way for some distance without further conversation. In a certain sense, his statement was a shock to me, and I could not rid myself of a haunting impression that when he made his disclosures there would be disagreeable facts revealed. Yet my curiosity could hardly have been at a higher point.

"Are you positive?" I ventured after a while. If there was any doubt in his mind as to the identity of the criminal his voice did not betray it.

"As absolutely sure in my own mind as though I had been hidden in the room and seen him. But you know proving these matters to the satisfaction of other people is quite another proposition, and it is the proof that will convince those who do not wish to be convinced that I am after now." He turned to me with a slow scrutiny of my face. "But I am going to get that proof tonight, and I want you to help me."

I pondered his proposition over briefly. I could see no objection to acting upon his suggestion, and it might give me an inkling of whom he had in his mind. Therefore after a short reflection I agreed. "Very well, I will give you any assistance that I can. Where are you going and what do you want me to do?" He pulled out his watch.

"It is nine o'clock now and is as dark as it is going to be tonight. We can take a stroll around and inspect the place I want to visit. If the coast is clear we will go ahead; if not we can wait until it is." He uttered a little chuckle. "For your information, I will say that I am going to commit a burglary on my own hook." I must have hesitated a little in my pace, for he laughed, and taking me by the arm led me, half resisting, with him.

"Also, for the easment of your mind, I will tell you that you need not worry about the criminality of the thing. I give you my word as a detective, and therefore necessarily as a gentleman, that what I am after has no intrinsic value. It is nothing but evidence, without value to the one who is to furnish it, but is of great value to me in proving my case. Moreover, the one from whom I will get it will know nothing about it until the time comes for me to denounce him. There is this slight risk about the transaction, however. If we should be detected in our act by some officer we would be arrested, and that would probably involve the disagreeable necessity of our going to headquarters and making an explanation. But you need have no fear of its going any further than that. The police officials know me, and I could readily satisfy them of my guiltlessness of anything more than a necessary technical offense committed in the unearthing of a serious crime. But it will be a forcible entry, and will have all the outside earmarks of a malicious offense, and I need your help to put it through successfully. Are you prepared for it now?"

I told him that while such things were not exactly in my line, that relying upon his assurances I would put myself in his hands, and he led me down a street that branched from the brightly lighted main thoroughfare which we had been pursuing into a less lighted section. For several blocks we continued our way under the scattering street lights of a section of the wholesale district which was practically abandoned of nights. In front of a darkness-haunted alley we came to a standstill. On each side of it towered great buildings with darkened windows, and with a quick glance around to make sure that no one observed us, he motioned for me to follow him. "Keep your eyes open for private watchmen—they are the fellows we have got to look out for," he whispered as we hastened through the gloom. Absolutely ignorant of what he was about to drag me into, I felt my heart beat faster as I trod close at his heels. Half way through the block he stopped and I saw dimly before us an iron fire escape that zig-zagged its way upward and disappeared in the blackness above. "It is a case of climb from now on. Just follow me," he instructed. Although not at all in love with the proposition, I grasped the rounds of the structure and mounted upward close under him. At the fourth story he stepped aside upon a narrow platform that branched out from the ladder in front of a window. The exertion had been quite severe, and we were both breathing rather heavily as I took my place by his side.

"Best kind of exercise for the appetite. Ought to get up every morning and do it for a couple of hours before breakfast," he panted. "This is the place I want to get into—this window here." He tapped on the glass before him with his finger. "And now comes the thing that I want you to assist me in doing. I have got to cut a circle out of that glass in order to raise the catch, and in doing it I

The putty will adhere to the glass and to your thumb, and you can thus keep it from dropping and making a racket when it is loosened. See the point? Now keep on pressing as I tell you." Placing my thumb tightly against the soft ball, I pushed steadily as with some instrument he scratched and grated harshly as he circled my hand. In perhaps five minutes there was a slight crack and he struck the circle a quick blow. The next instant I found a circular disk dangling from my thumb.

"Good work. But easy now," he whispered as he gently removed the glass and putty from my hand and slipped them into his pocket.

"Your real work is over, and all you have to do from now on is play lookout while I take a smell around inside. Just remain here and keep your eyes and ears open for trouble below. I will not be gone long." He thrust his arm through the opening and slid the catch, raised the sash, and swung himself into the blackness of the interior. I saw the flash of his electric pocket searchlight as he threw it over the room in a quick survey, then all within became as inscrutable as ever.

ONLY WAY TO DEAL WITH HAVEMEYER

"Be As Arbitrary As He Was," Says Arbuckle.

New York, July 25.—John Arbuckle, friend and opponent of H. O. Havemeyer, from his bed in the hotel of a little town near Lake Mohonk, answered the questions of a sub-committee from the house sugar investigators for more than two hours yesterday afternoon. The committee went to this city to take the stand. Mr. Arbuckle was insistent on one point, the one that was chiefly responsible for the congressman's journey to the valley of the Walkill river. It was that the termination of his war with Havemeyer had been the result of a slowly growing better feeling. It was not, he emphasized again and again, the outcome of an agreement.

He repeated that the Sherman law was uppermost in his mind and that of Mr. Havemeyer. He said that he never got down on his knees to the president of the American company, and threw in the opinion that the only way to deal with Mr. Havemeyer was to be "as arbitrary as he was." And he told a number of stories to illustrate his viewpoint.

An Appeal to Wives

You know the terrible affliction that comes to many homes from the result of a drinking husband or son. You know of the money wasted on "Drink" that is needed in the home to purchase food and clothing. Orrine has saved thousands of drinking men. It is a home treatment and can be given secretly or taken voluntarily. Put up in two forms, powder or pill. Your money will be returned if after a trial it has failed to benefit. Costs but $1.00 a box—a mere trifle when compared with the amount a drinking man will spend in a day for liquor. Come in and get a free booklet and let us tell you of the good ORRINE is doing.

Your Neighbor's Experience

How you may profit by it. Take Foley Kidney Pills. Mr. J. L. Francis, 316 W. North street, Greenfield, Ind., writes: "My kidneys have given me considerable trouble for quite a while, but since using one bottle of Foley Kidney Pills, I am entirely over this most annoying complaint and once more well. My back pained me greatly, my kidney action was irregular and painful, but I am now over my trouble and thank Foley Kidney Pills for my cure." F. B. Johnson & Co.

Making Profit

We certainly expect to make a reasonable profit on everything we sell. If we did not, we would close up shop. But mind you, we said reasonable. Some grocers want big profits, but then they are satisfied with few sales. We run our business on a different basis: small profits often repeated. We are satisfied, our customers are satisfied to save money on good quality groceries—so everybody is satisfied.

The Italian government will not permit telegrams relating to cholera to be sent from the country, but mail advices from Rome state that the official report from Naples for the five days ending July 16 shows sixty-four cases and twenty-one deaths.

We refuse sympathy and intimacy with people as if we waited for some better sympathy and intimacy to come. But whence and where? Tomorrow will be like today. Life wastes itself while we are preparing to live.—Emerson.

Earl McGibbons, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGibbons, formerly of this city, but now of Shelbyville, was arranged in juvenile court in Shelbyville before Judge Blair for the second time yesterday on the charge of forging a check on the Monte Wrench Company of that city. The court is expected to return a decision in a few days and it seems imminent that the boy will be sent to the reformatory at Plainfield. It seems that the youth is somewhat of a prevaricator as the court has, in the two hearings, caught him in several falsehoods. Judge Blair offered him a method of escaping the reformatory by agreeing to allow him to go free if he would go to work on a farm, but the boy said farm life was too slow for him.
